Research fields

Native American Philosophy
Philosophy of History
Biomedical History

Teaching experience (excluding visiting professorships)

- Department of History, Hartwick College, Oneonta, New York
assistant professor 1974
- Department of History, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey
assistant professor 1975-78
associate professor (with tenure) 1978-1996

Fellowships and grants

- Junior Fellow in Residence, Center for the History of the American Indian, The Newberry Library, 1973-74
- Faculty Research Grant, Rutgers University, 1975-76
- Summer Research Fellowship, Henry E. Huntington Library, 1976
- Faculty Research Grant, Rutgers University, 1976-77
- Junior Faculty Summer Fellowship, Rutgers University, 1977
- Summer Research Fellowship, Henry E. Huntington Library, June 1980
- National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Stipend, July and August 1980
- National Endowment for the Humanities Senior Fellowship for Independent Study and Research, July 1981-June 1982

- John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation Fellowship, July 1982-June 1983
- American Council of Learned Societies Fellowship, July 1986-June 1987

Visiting professorships

- Visiting Professor (non-teaching position), 1978-79 academic year, Department of History, Queen's University, Kingston, Canada, on a Canadian Embassy Fellowship
- Visiting Scholar and Visiting Professor (teaching), summer quarter 1983, Native American Studies Department, Dartmouth College
- Visiting Scholar (courtesy appointment only), 1992-93 academic year, Department of History, Dartmouth College
- Instructor (volunteer) at the Yukon-Kuskokwim Correctional Center, Bethel, Alaska, 1994-95 academic year. YKCC is the regional prison for southwestern Alaska, and houses mainly Yup'ik Eskimos, 140 of them. I offered a series of short courses on Native American issues, partly in an effort to help these men and women deal with alcohol (the chief curse in their lives) and partly for me to understand their lives better.
- Visiting Professor at the Alaska (Yup'ik Eskimo) Moravian Seminary, Bethel, Alaska, winter 1995, 1996.
- Professorial Lecturer, spring 1998, St. Lawrence University, Canton, NY.
- Visiting Scholar, Franklin Correctional Facility, Malone, NY, fall 2000. Franklin is a medium-security prison for about 1400 men, most of them from the New York City area, most of them black and hispanic. I taught a course here, for free, to inspire these men and for me to learn what their life is like. It was one of the finest classes I have taught anywhere; it shattered my preconceptions of men in prison.
- Distinguished Visiting Scholar in the Humanities, Hartwick College, Oneonta, NY, 2000-2003.
